MAPS GROUP WINS THE EDISON TENDER FOR THE SUPPLY OF THE ENERGY COMMUNITY MANAGEMENT PLATFORM

Signed a four-year agreement for the supply of the ROSE Energy Community software

Parma, 23 July 2024,

MAPS (MAPS; IT0005364333), an Innovative SME listed on Euronext Growth Milan and active in the Digital Transformation sector, announces that it has won the Edison tender for the four-year supply of its platform for the management of Energy Communities.

The ROSE Energy Community platform was deemed the most functional for the business models currently identified by Edison for Energy Communities and collective self-consumption configurations, in addition to being easily adaptable to future business models that the Group may foresee.

The platform will support the design, promotion, management, and involvement of all participants in the Energy Communities managed by Edison through Edison Energia and Edison Next.

In 2022, Edison Energia, active in the sale of electricity and natural gas, launched a development plan for condominium Energy Communities, aiming to create 2,200 communities with over 120 MW of total photovoltaic capacity by 2030. Public Administrations, whose goal is to create more sustainable and intelligent cities, also find Energy Communities to be a key solution in the decarbonization process. By promoting energy production from renewable sources and minimizing electricity consumption, Energy Communities contribute to the reduction of CO2 emissions, creating an environmental benefit for the entire territory. In this context, Edison Next is assisting Public Administrations in the design, creation, and subsequent management of an Energy Community.

Maurizio Pontremoli, CEO of Maps Group, comments: "Edison's choice rewards our attention to the broad and diversified needs of one of the primary operators in the sector. Being able to be the 'Digital Enabler' for such an important and demanding entity represents an achievement for the entire ecosystem of operators who have already chosen our ROSE Energy Community platform. We will now aim to enhance this presence in the architecture of Edison's digital energy services, to create value in areas such as energy efficiency and intelligent plant control for the 5.0 transition, as well as for the new opportunities that will be offered by the upcoming local flexibility market in which the same Energy Communities will be able to participate."
